

Will Infratec be New Zealand's First Utility-scale battery energy storage system?

Infratec,a renewables developer, is in the final stages of assessment for New Zealand's first utility-scale battery energy storage system (BESS) with Power distribution company WEL Networks.

Can battery technology save energy in New Zealand?

transferring and using energy. In New Zealand, our hydro lakes store energy on a large scale. However, until now we have had limited options to store electricity cost-effecti ely close to where it is used. Around the world, battery technology now offers opportunities to store electricity economica

Does Saft offer a battery energy storage system for New Zealand?

Saft Executive Vice President for Energy Storage Solutions, Hervé Amossé says, "Saft is proud to provide this first Battery Energy Storage System for New Zealandin the Waikato. We are excited to start this operation phase of the battery for which we will continue to support our partners.

Can 'non-hydroelectric energy storage' be a viable option in New Zealand?

As mentioned above, while New Zealand boasts large hydropower capacity, dry years due to low snowmelt or rainfall can leave hydroelectric unavailable for long periods. A government-supported project, NZ Battery, will investigate the feasibility of "non-hydroelectric energy storage options".

What is a Bess battery & how will it benefit New Zealand?

"The 35MWh BESS is the first battery of its scale in New Zealand and something we're very proud of," WEL said. "It will deliver huge benefits by improving the resilience of the electricity system, while also increasing the value of intermittent renewable generation in the region."

What can New Zealand do to improve energy resilience?

WEL Networks and Infratec said they are actively pursuing other opportunities to enhance resilience and increase access to renewable energy in the region. New Zealand currently has a couple of 1MW battery storage systems in operation, but certainly nothing on the scale of the BESS in Huntly.

Grid-scale energy storage is essentially a large-scale battery for the electrical power grid. It's a technology that stores excess energy produced during times of low demand or high renewable energy generation (like sunny days or windy nights) and releases it back into the grid when demand is high, or renewable energy production is low.

Additionally, these batteries, alongside more renewable generation, will help off-set the retirement of thermal generation and support New Zealand"s transition to a low-emissions economy. New Zealand"s first grid-scale battery in the Waikato. The first grid-scale battery was commissioned in 2023 by Hamilton lines company
