

Can you install lithium batteries in an RV?

Yes, you can install lithium batteries on any RV that accepts house batteries. They use the same connections as lead-acid batteries and have the exact dimensions as their lead-acid counterparts.

Are lithium ion batteries safe for RVs?

Lithium-ion batteries are very safe and reliablefor use in RVs. The best lithium-ion batteries have a built-in Battery Management System (BMS) that monitors the battery's condition. If the battery becomes too cold or is too low on energy, the BMS will shut the battery down for safety.

Are lithium batteries for RVs plug-and-play?

In most cases, installing lithium batteries in an RV is virtually 'plug-and-play'as they come with built-in battery management systems. However, we still recommend performing a visual check-in monthly.

Can I use a LiFePO4 battery on my RV?

You can install lithium batteries, specifically LiFePO4 batteries, for your RV's house batteries, not your engine starting battery. Most RVs use the Group 27 battery size, but some will use Group 24, Group 29, or others. Your house batteries should be labeled accordingly.

Do RV lithium batteries leak?

Do RV lithium batteries leak? No,they do not leak. Short-circuiting and overheating are two factors that contribute to explosions. A good BMS should be able to stop the battery from getting to the point where it becomes dangerous. In fact,a good high-quality RV lithium battery will be safer than a regular lead-acid one. That's especially true for LiFePO4 batteries.
